What happened

- ServiceTitan shut off its integration with Podium for approximately 1,000 shared customers after Podium began competing directly with the platform. 632fb91b
- Podium launched an AI operating system specifically for the home services industry. 586d3724
- The High Court of New Zealand denied Podium a $2 million tax deduction regarding building-works. 48c4b8cb

How the brand is perceived

- Small business owners have discussed switching to cheaper alternatives, framing the brand as an 'Everyman' option that is susceptible to price-based churn. 80df81f2

Risks to watch

- Podium’s aggressive AI strategy in the home services sector increases competitive pressure on existing market players. 586d3724

Openings for Weave

- The termination of the ServiceTitan integration creates an immediate opportunity to target approximately 1,000 displaced customers. 632fb91b
- The breakdown of the ServiceTitan partnership provides a clear opening to win over customers dissatisfied with Podium's strategic shifts. 0e8c9c4d

Recommended actions

1. Launch a targeted campaign for the 1,000 customers affected by the ServiceTitan-Podium integration shutdown.

These users are currently experiencing service disruption and are likely seeking a stable, reliable alternative. 632fb91b

2. Develop messaging that emphasizes Weave's commitment to partnership stability versus Podium's recent ecosystem conflicts.

This leverages the current friction between Podium and its former partners to build trust with prospective clients.
